SPIRITUAL OBJECTIVES

At the end of the sermon discussion, cell members will:

1. Reflect on our family's life stage and the different levels of intimacy
2. Respond by taking steps to create a thriving family life.

SERMON SUMMARY

The role of the family is like the Church's - to help every member mature in Christlikeness. We are created in God's image, and we are called to be God's image bearer to one another in our families.

SERMON RECAP

God created the institution of family. Each member of the family is created to be an image bearer of God and reflect God to one another. We are created to live in community (and not in isolation) and relate to one another. After the Fall, the function of the family included the importance of teaching its members regarding God and His ways so that we can remain in covenant with Him and will not wander from Him. Moses gave instructions to the Israelites to obey the Law, as it reveals who God is – the Jews were to live out the Law to one another.

The role of the family is to help every member mature in Christlikeness. The family plays an important role in society and it is not surprising that it is under the attack of the evil one. It is therefore critical for families to thrive.

There are 4 key elements for a family to thrive: commitment, grace, empowerment and intimacy.

Characteristics of a thriving family

1. Commitment: The foundation of the institution of family starts with the marriage covenant – it is an unconditional commitment and for individuals to love one another just like how Christ loves the church. God is involved in this covenant. Couples can take heart and rely on the Holy Spirit for strength and guidance to live out this covenant when there are challenges.
2. Grace: God designs family relationships to be lived out in an atmosphere of grace, not law. Grace means that order, regularity and being present so that family members' needs are met and our lives enhanced, not as means of repressing our needs or limiting our lives. Grace needs boundaries and rules to thrive. None of us is perfect (Ecclesiastes 7:20 ESV). Grace is about acknowledging and embracing one another's imperfections without condemnation and to love one another into wholeness.

"The family is the place where we learn how to deal with failure, where we learn about being less-than-perfect beings in a less-than perfect world. When a family pretends it is ideal, or when it believes that its members is ideal, serious problems ensue" – Dr. Henry Cloud.

Pastor Ernie also used the metaphor of how hurtful words of condemnation and judgement are like a pair of scissors that cuts off leaves of a plant (representing family life). As family life remains unattended and as emotions of hurt get more heightened, the words get sharper and more pain is felt. On the other hand, the Bible also talks about how words spoken in grace and truth can be like the pruning of a plant, helping family life to thrive.

3. Empowerment: The process of helping one another to recognise our own potential and spiritual gifts and reaching it through encouragement and guidance. It involves coming alongside a person to affirm his/her giftings and building his/her confidence to become all that he/she can be. Empowerment in the family allows the parent and child to thrive in external environments. Pastor Ernie also encouraged older adults to discover their spiritual giftings – it is not only for the younger generation.
4. Intimacy: When the family experiences covenant love, grace and empowerment, we will be able to communicate confidently and express ourselves freely without fear and wanting the best for one another. Family members need to make a concerted effort to listen, understand, accept differences and value one another's uniqueness. The best way to cultivate intimacy is through a concept of "bonding and separateness." Like how our God is near to us, it is important for family members to bond and grow with one another. Lack of bonding results in loneliness. In order for one to survive loneliness, individuals develop barriers to intimacy to soothe the pain but this prevents the problem from being resolved.

Pastor Ernie outlined the different levels of intimacy and encouraged families to strive for levels 4 or 5.

Levels of Intimacy

1. Level 1 - Acquaintances; members report events with no opinions or emotions connected. Sports, weather, and news are permissible topics of conversation.
2. Level 2 - Beginning of friendship; members report their opinions and thoughts about events but not their feelings.
3. Level 3 - Friendship; members discuss their emotions about certain subjects.

4. Level 4 - Deepening friendship; members discuss their thoughts and feelings about their struggles, fears and anxieties.
5. Level 5 - The most intimate level of sharing; members discuss their thoughts and feelings about each other.

Pastor Ernie also shared about separateness – while God is near, He gives us enough space for us to develop.

“Bonding alone is not enough. We also need self-ownership – self-determination of what we are to do with our lives and resources”

We need stewardship over how we use our lives (Matthew 25:14-30). While parents may do things out of good intentions, taking over every decision from the child results in him/her not being able to develop his/her own identity or to build resilience from lessons of failure. Parents are encouraged to play the role of a steward and for their children to live the life God wants for them – to be mature disciples of Christ. (Galatians 6:5)

Stages of Family Life

1. Early career adults without children. For those who are married (but without children), to build the foundations for a thriving marriage by doing life together and establishing rituals and cycles for spirituality and strengthening of marriage.
2. Early career adults with children. It takes a tag-team effort between parents to raise children in God’s way, to know God through the rituals of the Christian life and to pray for each other. Parents should aspire to become lighthouses for their children, shining light on the way to go, focusing on being a role model, counselling on what they can avoid and yet allowing them to have the independence to explore, make and own the decisions.

Pastor Ernie shared more about Proverbs 22:6: “Parents, if you allow your child to be “trained” in His own ways, you will reinforce his sinful inclinations to such a degree that, apart from supernatural intervention, even when he is old, he will not depart from it.”

For individuals who are single or come from single-parent families, Pastor Ernie encouraged these individuals to be involved in the Church community and interacting with one another.

3. Mid-life adults with teenagers. For parents to play more of a mentoring role to their children and allowing children to have more freedom in making choices while children continuing to be obedient. Pastor Ernie also encouraged parents to dialogue with children about having biblical worldviews (Ephesians 6:1).
4. Aging Adults with Singles and Married Children. For parents to be role models to and be equals with their children and for children to care for their parents as they age.

Pastor Ernie shared about the symptoms of bonding deficits:

1. Whenever all of the members of the family are at home, they spend all of their time in different rooms.
2. When the members of the family need comfort, they turn to food, drugs, work, hobbies, or other non-relational substitutes.
3. Conversations in the home centre around what a person is doing as opposed to how he/she is doing.
4. Relationships outside the home take precedence over relationships inside the home.

We all have a part and a role to play to make our families a thriving one in accordance with the season the family is in.
